Bill Vandell has been on the sick list for the past few days.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Beac a daughter on September 4th.

Mrs. Walker has purchased the residence near the telephone office and will move in shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Brown have returned to town after spending a holiday in the north part of the province.

Mrs. McMillan of Calgary is visiting her daughter Mrs. G. H. Parquhar.

Master Louis Hampton left last week for Regina where he will attend school for the next year.

Cpl. D. R. McLeay is at present visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. A. N. McLeay and is leaving shortly for Toronto where he will go on placement duty with the 1st Corps of the military police.

L. F. McHugh, who served overseas with the Canadian Army for several years has received word that his wife was due to arrive on the Letitia at Halifax September the 10th. She should arrive in Gleichen sometime this week.

Tuesday work was started on re-grading the streets under the supervision of Engineer Lester. The roads were badly cut up last week owing to the heavy rains. Late Monday afternoon Angus McLeay had his dog out and put the road from the main highway running past his residence in splendid shape and earned the thanks of those who live in this vicinity. This road is the best known in town.

The hunting season for ducks and will open early next Saturday morning and already the town sportsmen have the best shooting places figured out. For weeks the hunting enthusiasts have been stocking up with ammunition buying it where ever they could since they heard that it would be scarce this fall.

A shower was held at the home of Mrs. W. Schmidt in honor of Mr. M. Murray, a war bride who recently arrived from overseas. There was a very large attendance of ladies present and many excellent gifts were presented to Mrs. Murray to which she most suitably responded.

Al Wilson, Gleichen's most recent fisherman, left last week for his fishing grounds west of Calgary. Al always spends his holidays fishing. When he comes back he will have some good fish stories to tell his friends.

Ensign and Mrs. Walker of the Salvation Army now living in Regina are spending a week in town visiting friends. Ensign Walker lived in Gleichen for some years before moving to Regina several months ago. They have been transferred to British Columbia and will leave for there next Monday.

Salvation Army Home Front Will Launch An Appeal

Recreational facilities for the young of Canada are vastly below minimum requirements, it was stated by Lt.-Col. J. Merritt, head of The Salvation Army's Post Department for the Canadian territory.

"The outstanding need of The Salvation Army today is for more buildings and equipment for programs aimed at the reduction of juvenile delinquency," said Col. Merritt. "Though much work among children is carried on by The Salvation Army in the form of Scouts, Guides, Boy's Bunch and other group work, there is a tremendous demand for more halls which have gymnasiums and other indoor recreational features and more summer outing opportunities."

"All recreational facilities in existence today within and outside of The Salvation Army fall far short of what should be available to provide supervised play and hobby activities," he declared. "Swarms of

WATERWORKS PLEBSCITE

MONDAY, OCTOBER 28

The old water system has outlived its span of life and is to be renewed and enlarged.

No doubt many questions will enter the minds of the ratepayers of Gleichen such as:

"What will it cost?"
"Who is to benefit from the system?"
"What part of the town will it cover?"
"Will we have fire protection?"
"Are we going to use the water tower?"

"Who is to pay for it and how is it to be paid?"

For the next five weeks this space will be reserved to give the ratepayers a true picture of the money-by-law to be voted on. Watch for this space every week.

On October 21st a general meeting will be held in the Community Hall of all ratepayers to discuss the by-law and to answer any questions that may not be clear.

On the following Monday October 22nd the plebiscite will take place to decide the issue.

WATCH FOR THIS SPACE EVERY WEEK

W. SUTERMEISTER, Mayor.

Idle young folk roam the street, too often forming into gangs which follow the path to criminality.

"The best place to attack adult criminality is at the source—juvenile delinquency leading to a search for amusement that too often becomes lawless."

"Working as it does chiefly among the unchurched of the cities and rural areas, The Salvation Army daily sees the great need for the extension of evangelical work, the primary activity of The Army, to bring about a restoration to useful life of the strayed. Annually The Salvation Army carries its message of redemption to scores of thousands in Canada."

In its social service field, The Salvation Army operates across the Dominion 82 institutions to help people. Maintenance costs, above income, are met through public subscription.

It is hope that this year's Home Front Appeal for $2,000,000, to be inaugurated Sunday, September 15, will bring in funds to an amount permitting some extension of facilities.

Ration Book No. 6 Sept. 12 and 13

Ration Book No. 6 will be distributed in Gleichen on Thursday and Friday, September 12 and 13. As in the past the books will be distributed from the dining room of the Community Hall and the hours will be from 10 o'clock in the morning until 4 p.m. The work of accepting applications for the new books has always been done by volunteers and this time it will be done the same way.

"All ration book holders should arrange to call for their new books on the days arranged at their local point as no further distribution will take place until after September 30," a Prices Board official points out. "They will otherwise be deprived of the use of ration coupons in the meantime," he warned.

The new ration book No. 6 is neatly printed and bound in an orange-yellow cover and contains fifty coupons for butter, fifty for sugar and fifty for meat. Seventy-five "X" and "Y" coupons are also inserted in the new book should the need of their use arise in the future.

September suggests to many people the end of summer and consequently a season of grief and lamentation; others would sing songs to the melody of cooler nights of sweet repose which the turn of the year brings with that soft gossamer mistfall.

ness of the countryside, so redolent as the evanescent enchantment of spring. The fall of dew spangled shoulders is one of the many charms of sweet September. Numberless threads of the very finest silk, made by tiny spiders, supposed in simpler times to supply the looms which fabrics wove the material for their dainty little dresses. Then there is the mystic fascination of the rug, change harvest moon by night while by day the September sun touches the blushing trees gently as with a benediction. Towards the end of the month many of these turns will turn into a blaze of glory.

A View of al Peace Conference

BY REV. WALTER E. SIEBER

A meeting in Cambridge, England, in August, though it received scarcely any notice from newspapers and commentators might easily out-rank other important gatherings in its influence upon the future peace of the world.

Leaders from 15 different countries representing Protestant and Eastern Orthodox Communions met under the auspices of the World Council of Churches to explore the moral and spiritual problems involved in the present and durable peace.

After full and free discussions and much careful deliberating a commission of thirty people was appointed to bring the Christian Churches in influence to bear upon the Peace Conference.

Whether this commission will seek the full cooperation of the Roman Catholic Church is not yet clear. It is feared that some groups, such as Orthodox Church could not well accept the Vatican's policy of a "hot war" against Soviet Russia. But on the principles and policies that should govern the peace treaties all communions were agreed, and are in harmony with other pronouncements made by the pope.

Several such gatherings have taken place in the past few years, all held in the U.S.A. under the auspices of Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. The most notable one was that held in Delaware which produced a charter as a Basis for Just and Lasting Peace, outlining the moral Christian principles upon which such a peace should be based.

The leading spirit of those meetings was a layman, John Foster Dulles, who is "persona grata" in the Department of the Secretary of State in Washington and is one of the best informed men on international affairs and politics.

This new commission of thirty leaders should create a better atmosphere at the peace table. The Orthodox Church is a powerful and influential institution in countries like Russia and those that have recently come under her influence. We almost dare to hope that their influence might be felt in curbing Russia's frantic grab for more power in Europe.

Much will depend on whether Russia will try, or how far the Kremlin is able to control the churches in Russia and her satellite states.

Whether or not State Secretary Byrnes was in any way helped, or influenced by the action of the Cambridge meeting would be impossible to say. But it should be noted that his recent speech at Stuttgart, Germany, followed much more closely the line of thought of these Church leaders in the matter of peace than the barbaric Morgenthau plan underlying the Potsdam agreement which envisioned Germany reduced to a slave nation.

Mr. Byrnes declaration that the eastern boundary of Germany was not irrevocably fixed at the Oder River brought forth violent blasts of criticism from communist controlled Poland. It was in effect, a direct challenge to Russia her march westward in Europe, and as such it may widen the chasm between the eastern Communist controlled countries and the western democracies.

France, too, is angered because she sees her hope of annexing the richest industrial section of Germany fading into the background. Whether this is likely to cause France to gravitate further into the orbit of Russia's influence and result in an agreement with Russian controlled nations, of mutual support at the peace table for their separate ambitions in truncating Germany, cannot be immediately known.

To take from Germany her breadbasket, the eastern agricultural district for the benefit of Russian satellites, and the western industrial section for France would destroy Germany as a nation. Mr. Byrnes knows that such a situation would utterly destroy the stability of Europe and that in such a condition of chaotic unrest Russia could push her advances over nearly if not the whole of Europe.

Russian Communism would have everything to gain from such a condition of chaos in Europe and the cause of real democracy would be lost on the continent for generations to come.

In reality it would mean that the western democracies, which supplied the sinews and tools of war, and won the war, would have lost the peace even before a peace treaty had ever been signed. The thirty man commission might be able to help prevent such a disastrous situation from arising.

BUILDING for A BETTER CANADA

A Call to Reconstruction on Humanity's Home Front

The needs of a Canada at war placed new and wider obligations on The Salvation Army.

Its traditional work on the Home Front... the reclamation of individual lives, broken by folly or misfortune... was maintained. The wider task, at home and abroad, was added.

The Army now faces the aftermath of war. New problems in individual lives, seeking readjustment... new demands on equipment made inadequate by war and expanding need... reconstruction!

Today, The Salvation Army calls to YOU, its unaffiliated supporters, to contribute YOUR dollars NOW... to make possible the work of human and physical reconstruction... to aid in building for a better Canada. Give generously.

ON HUMANITY'S HOME FRONT

Many thousands of The Salvation Army in its Western Division and Children's Summer Camps, Hospital, Home, and other services, are working for the betterment of humanity.

An Appeal will be made in Gleichen in the near future.

Canada's Foreign Trade

THE QUESTION OF INCREASING foreign trade is one of the most important matters with which Canada must deal in the post-war years. During the war, it was demonstrated that we have the necessary requisites for great industrial development. When there was urgent need for war materials, Canadian industry was able to expand greatly to help meet these needs, and this expansion brought about a general speeding up of activity in many of the primary industries, in transportation services, and other factors associated with industrial production. During the war, labour and material were often in short supply, this expansion was frequently beset with difficulties, but in time of peace, such a development would be of benefit to the entire country.

Faced With A Challenge

Canada's Minister of Trade, Mr. MacKinnon, has drawn attention to the fact that we are now faced with a challenge to seek new markets in addition to those in the United States and Great Britain, which have been for many years the traditional outlets for Canadian goods. The Trade Minister, in a recent address before the Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce at Edmonton, expressed the view that we can look to Latin America for great expansion in trade. It is apparent that there is a keen interest in those countries in developing trade with Canada, and that there is a very large market there for many Canadian products. Mr. MacKinnon and other authorities have also urged that more attention be directed to markets for Canadian goods in the Orient. Japan, once a great export market is not now a competitor for trade in the Pacific, and there should be many opportunities open there.

More Trade With India

Records show that in 1939 exports to Australia, New Zealand, China, India and Japan formed less than ten per cent. of Canada's total export trade. During the war, trade with India increased, and there are encouraging signs that this trend will continue. There are two countries are not competitive. There is now also a great potential market for Canadian goods in China. It is apparent that competition for business in the post-war world is keen, and that it is necessary to make every effort to secure profitable outlets for her products. In the words of Mr. MacKinnon, "If Canada cannot find markets for her goods at satisfactory prices, her economic consequences will be serious. Her developments respecting foreign trade should be watched with interest for they may have a profound effect on Canada's future economy."

Would Train Nurses

Most Relieve The Present Shortage Across Canada

TORONTO.—The Canadian Nurses' Association at the closing session of its convention recommended that immediate steps be taken to train nurses aides to meet the shortage with a view to alleviation of the present acute shortage of nurses across Canada.

The association urged that representative committees be formed for the purpose of studying the problem. Included would be representatives of the nursing and medical professions, hospital administration and hospital associations, and provincial government departments.

The committees would make an analysis of the functions and responsibilities of the professional nurses in order that their energies may be directed to those duties and that duties not requiring the services of a professional nurse be directed to other workers.

Because the educational requirements for admission to schools of nursing in Canada vary in the different provinces, and the requirements of some schools do not meet university matriculation standards, the assembly urged that educational credentials of applicants be appraised on an authoritative educational body.

Location Of Legendary Silver Mine In Ontario Is Mystery

A silver mine of fabulous wealth is located in a cave somewhere in the Manitowish Lake district east of Peterborough, Ontario, according to local legend. Location of the mine, it is believed, is known only to a few Indians in the district.

The legend says that many years ago a man named Meyers came to the wild area around Manitowish Lake for his health and there became friendly with the Indians and finally was shown the cave.

The tale told by Meyers was that the silver mine was in the cave in formations hanging from the ceiling. Two other white men were supposed to have been present with Meyers from the cave by Indians. Today, however, the whereabouts of the legendary mine is a mystery.

A MOTOR TRIP

Four Manitoba Residents Travel To Ontario In A Jeep

Travelling 1,300 miles in a jeep is not exactly the most comfortable mode of transportation, but it is a way of getting to your destination and seeing more of the world in the same time. Four residents of Manitoba did that, when they travelled from Gypsumville, about 130 miles north of Winnipeg, to St. Catharines in a farm jeep.

The four, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hunter and Mr. and Mrs. Alroy Freeman, came down to attend a funeral. They had planned to go by rail, but missed the train, and struck upon the brilliant idea of making the journey in a jeep. Leaving Gypsumville on Wednesday afternoon, the quartet and their jeep arrived on Saturday morning, none the worse for their long trip.

On the contrary, the journey was rather delightful, with many interesting sights encountered on the way. No trouble was experienced, but they did run out of gas north of North Bay. In all, it was a most interesting journey.—St. Catharines Standard.

But Viscount Montgomery's Coat Of Arms Is Conventional Shield

Field Marshal Montgomery, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, has chosen a conventional shield for his coat of arms, but the supporters reflect his unorthodoxy. One is a crusader—reminiscent of the crusader's badge worn by his famed 8th Army—the other is a British Tommy in battle dress, wearing a black beret of the type favoured by the Field Marshal.

The shield proper shows two lions and lilies and is surmounted by a helmet and broken spear, features for centuries in the arms of Montgomery's families. The motto is shared with the other Montgomerys, reads: "Gardez Bien" (Guard Well).

Second Pickpocket: "Well, we've got to know where all the pockets are, haven't we?"

Porter: "Shall I brush you up, sir?"

Passenger: "Never mind, I'll climb off the back myself, thank you, passengers."

"I hope to get on, sir, I'm taking a correspondence course to learn how to get on, sir." "I'm well, it's just too late for you, Jones. I'm also taking a course to learn how to reduce expenses."

Teacher: "Robert, give me a sentence which includes the word 'fascinate'."

Robert (after deep thought): "My father has a waistcoat with 10 buttons on, he can only fasten eight."

Client: "Do you think you can make a good portrait of my wife?"

Artist: "My friend, I can make it so lifelike that you'll jump every time you see it."

Sergeant: "Did you sleep well on your cot?" "I'm afraid it was a little hard and uneven—but..."

Concept: "It was all right, sir, I got up now and then during the night and rested a little, you know."

"I understand married men make the most commercial travellers."

That's right. Probably because they're so used to taking orders."

Young Bill: Look at your old worn boots and your father a shoemaker. You ought to be ashamed of them."

Young Phil: That's nothing. My father's boots get only one tooth and your father's a dentist. You know."

The old-fashioned farmer was hard to convince. "No," declared he, "I'll have no such contrived thing as my house. Planters are bad things."

"But, father," protested his daughter, "this is an upright planter."

A business man called at a friend's house and asked for the piano room he asked, "How's your new office boy getting along?"

"After he's got everything so mixed up that I can't get along without him!"

A Kentucky judge met an old Negro man many of his acquaintances. "Good morning, Aunt Jemima," he said, pleasantly. "Where are you going?"

"Laws, Judge," was her reply. "I was being 'Wh' e'g'."

Established Service

Blood Donation Scheme Has Proved Valuable To British Hospitals

In a review of Britain's blood donation scheme last year the British Ministry of Health states that about four thousand bottles of dried plasma were sent to Holland after the liberation for the medical treatment of people suffering from the effects of starvation. This was in addition to many thousands of bottles of whole blood plasma sent to the British fighting services and used in civilian hospitals in Britain, where transfusion is being used for surgical and maternity cases.

The total number of blood donations in England and Wales last year was nearly 304,000. Before the blood transfusion was the concern of a few voluntary associations and one or two local hospitals.

Now a service designed to meet the needs of wartime casualties has become an established and valuable part of the general hospital services of Britain.—Fort William Times-Journal.

Origin Of Ice Cream

Production Was Started First In Italy In Year 1600

Very few people are aware that ice cream has been recorded but its production is said to have originated in Italy as long ago as 1600. Water lilies were probably brought to France from that country about 1550 but ice cream itself evidently was not used in Paris until 1775. It appeared in England and Germany about the same time and was advertised in New York in 1786 for the first time. Ice cream was introduced in Washington at a dinner in honor of President Jackson—Kitchener Record.

Sound Advice

Public Is Urged To Save Money For Future Use

The Bank of Montreal is putting across Canada a series of advertisements, directly addressed to the average individual earner. "Save yourself and you save Canada" is the substance of the timely advertisement, which is stressed on people's minds. Hold on to your Victory Bonds. Buy only those goods which are in fair supply and save your money for the day when goods now in short supply will be really available. Avoid black market purchases. Keep up your insurance. Build up your savings account. "Save yourself and you save Canada" is not the counsel of despair. Nor is it one of utility. It is far better to have such advice now effective than to envy the time when someone will cry out "Save you just", everybody for himself. The Bank of Montreal counsels thrift, frugality and a little care and foresight. Such counsel can never be out of date or obsolete. The uncertainties which may lie ahead will cause no fear for those who take the standard seriously.—St. Catharines Standard.

Talking Dog

Only Canine In The World Who Can Speak A Sentence

LONDON.—In the middle of the "dog days" the Daily Mirror sprang a talking dog on its readers when the paper said, has been found to be the world's only canine who can articulate human speech. The Mirror told how two well known British veterinary surgeons had examined the phenomenon and had found that "Ben", boarded in Royton, near Cambridge, could say "I want one."

Just what "Ben" wanted remained obscure, although the dog performed his trick with particular success in a tavern, the Mirror said. Now, the veterinarians were said to advise that "Ben" should be taught to say: "I want more."

For Reducing Diets

Bill was lying with his hand held on his hands when she came in. She smiled warmly. "Hello," he said. "Hello. I heard you were better."

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

YOU KNOW BILL.

By MATTHEW F. CHRISTOPHER

Copyright Wheeler Newspaper Syndicate

SHE heard the moan as she carried the empty glass out of the room and she knew it was the new boy in the corner. The one with the white bandages over his eyes. She saw the pain that grooved his forehead.

Suddenly she turned and went back into the ward. She stopped beside his bed, and her "Hello" was gentle, almost inaudible. "The doctor told me you'd be able to see," she said. "I'm happy to hear that."

A very smile came to his lips. "Yeah, I know," he said. "But one eye! I'd have to be twice as careful. I wouldn't be able to play. I play baseball. . . or football. You can't focus with eyes. You can't do lots of things. And people would stare at your back. There goes Joe Walsh. Did you see him? He's a counterfeiter. I'd rather beat 'em. His voice trailed off.

She sat down on the edge of the bed, and touched his arm above the bandage, feeling his fingers lightly with just enough pressure. She could understand because he was so young. Nineteen, Nurse West had said.

"You don't want to give up," she said. "It isn't a routine, it's a life. It's almost the same, but it isn't. With it, one eye is different. Remember, there are some who lost both their eyes."

"I'm not them," he said. And they don't like it. None of 'em like it. "No, they don't," she agreed. "But they learn to take it without giving up. They learn to live with their hands and their bodies and forget they ever had sight, and they're happy. But you'll be different. You'll be able to see."

"Please," he begged. "Don't start giving me that again. I've heard it all. I'm in a cage—or do you?" "I'm sorry," she said. "I suppose that you don't care living in a cage—or do you?" "I mean near a lake, with the noises of birds and the murmur of leaves to keep you company."

She could feel him gazing at her, the corners of his hidden eyes. His mouth, a curved wound in his tanned face, parted, closed. "I'm sorry," she sighed. "I guess you don't care for the outdoor sort of life." The felt hangings, which had turned away momentarily, staring at her pink flannels. "Perhaps you're a hunter. Never."

"But did," he said quickly. "I always failed. I loved it. And I loved hunting—" His voice caught. "Oh, you stay? How wonderful!" He did, too. I used to go fishing with my brother. Did you ever fish for pickerel?"

"Picked? Sure, we used to go down to Perry Lake. Jim and I. I was a pal of mine, a great fisherman. We used to make him get the biggest. Boy! Pickerel! There was a lot of 'em in Perry Lake. But what I was crazy about was spearfishing for suckers. Did you ever spear for suckers?"

"Twice," she said. "But I don't like it. I slipped on the rocks once and got soaked." "Oh, that's not a pal of mine, a great fisherman. We used to make him get the biggest. Boy! Pickerel! to live for. When they come here they forget everything but their wounds. They left their real lives behind them. . . . I just bring it back to them."

Nurse West grinned. "Well, what I mean to say is, aren't you being unfair to yourself? He has another girl."

Carol smiled. "No, Miss West, that's where you're wrong. Really, the expense is always there. You see, I have another fellow, too. I always have another fellow."

Precious Cargo

Cosmic Rays Believed To Be Potent Source Of Energy

Bearing a precious cargo of cosmic ray records, the specially equipped B-29 bomber, which is headed science's latest attack on one of Nature's great riddles was flying to Washington.

The superb "Flying Laboratory," after a three months' pursuit of the strange cosmic messengers, which constantly bombard the earth from outer space, possibly held the key to many unsolved secrets of the universe.

Fitted with special instruments for measuring the intensity of the invisible radiations and recording their impact, the high-flying bomber ranged back and forth over a 4,800-mile path at heights up to approximately 31,500 miles above sea level.

The area of research stretched from near the Canadian border to a spot off the coast of northern Chile. The little-understood cosmic rays, which are the most penetrating form of radiation, they pass through the human body 20 to 30 times a second. They have penetrated lead blocks 75 feet thick. If man could develop their power he might have an endless source of titanic energy.

Likes Her Job

Woman Cobbler In Vancouver Would Not Do Anything Else

VANCOUVER.—Pretty Frances Chambers is a dainty cobbler and she cannot understand why anyone should consider shoe-making an unattractive occupation for women. "I wouldn't change with any steady-going man," she told an interviewer. "I like cobblering because it requires more talent than other occupations open to women and I enjoy the work so much that she learned every phase of the craft. She said that she had never gouged her finger with an awl and has come to enjoy the acid odor of hot rubber."

Her husband, whom she said she "almost married over a mended boot," is a cobbler, and she said she "almost married over a mended boot."

Japanese Atrocities

Canada Securing Evidence To Assist In Prosecution

The R.C.A.F. has reported on the work of the Canadian war crimes liaison detachment, which has been engaged for months tracing information on atrocities committed in Japanese prisoners of war camps against Canadians.

A press release said the unit, under command of Lt.-Col. Oscar O'Farrell, Vancouver and including three other officers, has been sifting evidence and comparing findings with those of British and the United States—evidence and findings which are eventually appear in war crimes courts at strategic points in the vast Pacific.

As Canada now has no armed force in the Far East, it will be necessary to try Japanese accused of crimes against Canadians in either British or American courts. Both governments have informed Canada, they are willing to try such criminals and have invited the detachment to assist in the prosecution.

In Ottawa, the Canadian war crimes investigation section at defence headquarters, under Lt.-Col. M. Griffin of Vancouver, is sifting evidence and has the written testimony of prisoners now back home in Canada.

One of the unit's most important sources of evidence is the diary kept by Wing Cmdr. Leonard J. Birchall, O.B.E., D.F.C., of St. Catharines, the British City of York, who was the British colony of the approach of a Japanese invasion fleet and then was shot down and taken prisoner.

The diary contains the history of every prisoner Birchall met and his testimony is valued by each country whose nationals were prisoners of the Japanese. Only one-half of the diary, made up of several flimsy paper scraps, has been recovered. The other half was lost in a bombardment by an American fighter.

The difficulties of the unit are many. There is ambiguity in evidence and the complexity of the case spelling makes identification difficult. The unit must be able to travel to obtain testimony and a check of evidence requires that all parts be collected from all parts of the world.

Natural Resources

Of Ontario Said To Be Retarded By Lack Of Population

TORONTO.—Development of Ontario's vast natural resources is retarded only by lack of population, provincial agricultural minister Kennedy said at a dinner given by the government for the International Emergency food council committee on fertilizers. The committee represents 21 nations.

"Our population is only 11 persons to the square mile and the land under cultivation amounts to only 25 per cent of the province's area," said Mr. Kennedy. "What we need here is more people."

More than a score of pulp and paper mills are in operation in Ontario, but they are in constant operation but they had only scratched the fringe of millions of acres of standing timber.

"One company (Abitibi) is working in a circle which will take it 20 years to complete and by that time there will be new growth ready for cutting," said Mr. Kennedy. "The forest over areas which I doubt will ever see the imprint of man for years to come."

TROOPS OVERSEAS

More than 8,400 army, navy and air force personnel are still overseas awaiting repatriation to Canada. A total of 8,700 soldiers, 700 sailors and 700 airmen are in the service of the United Nations. Number of naval personnel overseas will not be known until enlistments in the new interim force are complete.
